Centralized Vision has been honored with a number two ranking in the annual poll by Ranking Arizona Magazine. The security surveillance business earned this spot among other Arizona guard and security service businesses. It moved up in the rankings from its #4 spot.

“A high ranking at Ranking Arizona is an important achievement for our security surveillance business,” said Tom Vigilante, founder and president of Centralized Vision. “We consider customer service to be vital to our business model. This poll shows that we are making our clients happy as well as keeping their premises and people more secure.”

The company serves a diverse client list including residential properties, offices, hospitals, schools and industrial sites. While their National Operations Center is in Phoenix, they serve clients nationwide.

Virtual Guard services focuses on keeping criminals and vandals off of clients' properties, parking lots, and parking garages. Virtual Engineer services are aimed at reducing problems associated with power outages and other building system malfunctions. Virtual Concierge balances hospitality with security, providing safety and information to residents and guests or employees and customers.

The Ranking Arizona poll is considered the largest opinion poll in the state. It annually ranks companies based on customer responses.
